

•
•
•
•

Abstract of the Disclosure

A pressure polymerization process yielding a copolymer comprising monomer units derived from ethylene and at least one vinyl ester is provided. The polymerization is performed in presence of at least one dendritic polymer, such as a dendritic polyester, polyether, polyesteramide, or polyetheramide.